ARTICLE

A way of diluting credit discipline

The RBI regulations on opening current accounts have operational and regulatory issues

Some bank borrowers have gone to court demanding that it quash the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) circular dated August 6, 2020 on opening current accounts. The RBI has since extended the date for compliance to October 31, 2021. Diversion of funds is a major reason for large non-performing assets (NPAs). Internal diversion is for non-priority purposes such as limousines, plush offices, and vanity acquisition of companies. Funds can also be diverted to other firms, owned or controlled by the same group, friends or relatives. The first is the result of misguided strategies or muddled priorities. The second is an intention to defraud lenders, other creditors, and non-controlling shareholders.

✓ The regulations

block

The intentions of the impugned ^{challenge.} circular dated August 6, 2020 are unexceptionable. Widespread non-compliance with mandated safeguards forced the RBI to bar non-lending banks from opening current accounts for large borrowers. Thus, if borrowing is through a cash credit or overdraft account, no bank can open a current account. Submission ↗

Something that cannot be followed.

↳ short-term working capital through loan.

Ordered

If a borrower has no cash credit or overdraft account, a current account can be opened subject to restrictions. If the bank's exposure is less than 10% of total borrowings, debits to the account can only be for transfers to accounts with a designated bank.
