State to set up wildlife crime control bureau

Its headquarters will be in Chennai

ARTICLE

A Tamil Nadu Forest and Wildlife Crime Control Bureau (TN FWCB) will be set up with four offices in Chennai, Coimbatore, Madurai and Ramanathapuram, according to an order by Supriya Sahu, Secretary, Environment and Forests. Forest and wildlife crimes not only adversely impact the diverse flora and fauna of a region, but seriously affect the entire ecosystem. Poaching and organised illegal wildlife trade have serious ramifications on biodiversity and can lead to the loss of rare species, threatening sustainable and equitable growth, according to a proposal sent by the Chief Wildlife Warden to the government.

ARTICLE

Tamil Nadu is one of the richest biodiversity regions in India, and ranks first in floral biodiversity in the country. With 15 wildlife sanctuaries, 15 bird sanctuaries, five tiger reserves, four elephant reserves, five national parks and three biosphere reserves, Tamil Nadu's forest and wildlife wealth is unparalleled. To conserve the rich biodiversity of the State and prevent illegal forest and wildlife trade, the government had made an announcement in the Assembly that a Forest and Wildlife Crime Control Bureau would be set up to detect and prevent organised forest and wildlife crimes at the State level.

ARTICLE

Its objectives will be to combat forest and wildlife crime through a well-designed institutional network of trained forest personnel; gather information related to wildlife crime and illegal trade, including trans-boundary trade, and to coordinate with various national and international organisations to access information and intelligence to reduce and control wildlife crime. It will also create a State-level forest and wildlife crime databank to assist investigating agencies, develop and implement various standards.
