5G to account for 39% of India's subscriptions by 2027: Ericsson
Telecom firm sees 5G subscribers totalling about 50 million by the end of 2023

ARTICLE

The number of subscriptions to India's 5G services, which are likely to be rolled out from later this year, is expected to reach about 500 million, or 39% of all subscribers, by 2027, telecom equipment maker Ericsson said in a report. Noting that 4G was currently the dominant subscription type driving connectivity growth in India, Ericsson said in its Mobility Report (June 2022) that the commercial introduction of 5G networks was planned for the second half of 2022, with enhanced mobile broadband expected to initially be the main use case.

ARTICLE

“With increasing availability and affordability of 5G smartphones, along with rapid adoption of smartphones in urban and rural areas, 5G subscriptions are expected to rapidly increase to reach around 50 million... by the end of 2023,” it said, adding 5G would represent about 39% of subscriptions at the end of 2027, with about 500 million accounts. “Total mobile data traffic in the India region is estimated to grow by a factor of 4 between 2021 and 2027,” said Thiaw Seng Ng, Head of Network Evolution, SEA, Oceania and India, Ericsson. “This is driven by high growth in the number of smartphone users and an increase in average usage per smartphone,” he added.

ARTICLE

Ericsson added that while India presented significant opportunities, it also held challenges for service providers. It pointed out that average revenue per user for telecoms remained low despite a recent increase in the price of data. “Moreover, India has some of the highest prices for spectrum in the world, constraining service providers’ ability to invest in infrastructure,” the company said.
